Special Guest Speaker Stephen Mansfield

Stephen Mansfield is a popular speaker, New York Times best-selling author, leader and advisor whose work is centered on faith, character and leadership in the service of society.

Stephen Mansfield is gaining an international reputation as a popular speaker of both depth and insight into our changing culture, yet this reputation has been fueled by his award-winning career as an author.

In addition to his writing career, Stephen has also worked international relief. Following the First Gulf War, he worked among the Kurds in Northern Iraq to help that beleaguered people rebuild their society. These efforts led to several trips to the Vatican to negotiate better Protestant/Catholic relations in Iraq. Stephen lectured in law schools, headlined a national PBS-style television program on democracy, and contributed to efforts as diverse as building medical clinics and encouraging the arts.

"I don't know if I can even find the words – WOW! He is just the most amazing guy. I would recommend him a zillion times over to anyone needing a speaker...for anything.

It was such an uplifting and encouraging message that we all left feeling renewed and refreshed."
